

Channeling Block

4 September 2017

It's probably just a different version of writer's block that I have (but when I become one to then be able to get blocked, I'll let everybody know) or maybe like a singer's loss of voice, but either way it's been difficult lately to depress the mental clutch and engage first gear.

Engine's running, off we go.

Q: Esteemed Committee: training, habit and custom have taught me, as with other people, that there should be a subject, purpose and objective to an exercise; such as this one.

C: If you wish, but not having such destination is also a purpose.

Q: I feel little motivation to channel the deceased, but it comes so easily when I do. It seems easier than any other I've attempted. Why?

C: Why do you feel little motivation or why is it easy?

Q: Both. (sharp ears on these GAGs..)

C: We heard that. You know why, you dislike the criticism when a reader discovers differences between their impression and what you supply.

Q: Why is it so easy?

C: Former humans usually do this very well. You also have a good basis for questions, taken from the publicly known life.

Q: OK, let's get to something readers want to know. Where is Hurricane Irma going? (As this is written, Irma's impact on land is unknown.)

C: To her destination.

Q: Which would be?

C: This we will not predict. We will not reveal.

Q: You know where it's going?

C: Yes.

Q: THIS is what annoys humans so much about channeling! Information available that is withheld!

C: Do you really wish to see photographs of your uncle's hemorrhoids?

Q: Not knowing what cannot be known? OK, but being denied information! Damn!

C: Do we receive credit for admitting this is sometimes the case?

Q: I guess so, but not from enough people I don't think. I understand most people and very little property can be removed from the impact area whether the information is known or not, and even if a long warning is provided, people who ignore it will be roundly criticized.

C: We withhold what we know not to avoid human criticism of the one against the other. Information is withheld by human design and desire, solely.

Q: OK, I change my mind, I want to know.

C: You speak for everyone? Who will believe you until you have correctly predicted several times in a row. Once this has occurred, then you will become the predictor and source of money. This already happened and we intentionally interrupted that.

Q: Is North Korea really going to launch a warhead similar to the test detonation done yesterday?

C: No.

Q: Is there any change in the purpose of these threats?

C: No.

Q: Will economic pressure on North Korea trading partners cause trouble in North Korea?

C: Very little, and will likely make the North Korean trading partners very unhappy with the USA.

Q: OK, Esteemed Committee, you 3 become the leader of the US; what do you do to counter the threats North Korea issues from time to time?

C: Ignore them.

Q: Are there really more sexist pig males around now? More than there were decades ago?

C: No.

Q: Rumors about decreased sperm counts in men in western countries; are they true and is this limited to such nations? In other words, are the sperm counts and fertility of males in other regions also lower or closer to historically normal levels?

C: Yes, to western nations and no to others however the decreases are not even and can be reversed. The change has been occurring for some time and is largely the result of lifestyle. The reduction and de-emphasis of physical activity and work, the prevalence of physical inactivity. These effects are not evenly spaced or distributed.

Q: Do diet and substance abuse play a factor?

C: Yes, however these are not driving factors across the board.

Q: Y'all have spoken of reduced birth rates caused by reduced fertility; are these reduced spermatozoid counts in males part of the process?

C: No, not yet. The decreased fertility will be the result of changes to the cells themselves, not a lower number of them. These alterations will affect males and females alike.

Q: Is the US stock market going to suffer dramatic drops anytime soon, such as during the next year?

C: You mean collapses? This depends on the definition of collapse. There will be sudden drops and recoveries of overall share prices, but the downward portions of the oscillations will most certainly be called drops or collapses. They are not; the reason for this perception is the unknown recovery time and level. Because the drop is certain, measured and known in amount, nothing less than a similar certainty regarding the recovery can erase the perception of a drop or collapse. The known payment of interest over time is the baseline measurement; Stock price appreciation cannot be scheduled to match.

Q: What about investments like gold or other precious metals?

C: These will be more defensive but are unlikely to appreciate. They will drop in buying power more slowly but maintain a better level of purchasing power, over time. Eventually they too will become much less valuable.

Q: Are autonomous cars really going to develop and become widespread?

C: No, however they will develop more than has occurred so far, and will not be a rare sight. The use of motor vehicles, whether electric or fueled by other means, will diminish and sharply.

Q: Of course we want to know when.

C: When it happens, and the process will not occur over a brief several months long span.

Q: We all want to know during which years?

C: The next several, the process is already underway in this one of two thousand seventeen.

Q: Will the political attacks on Trump succeed in removing him from office?

C: No.

Q: Will the US House of Representatives impeach Trump for alleged offenses?
C: Yes, but the Senate will not remove him because he will not have committed an offense.

Q: The impeachment will essentially be a political move.
C: Yes.

Q: Was Hurricane Harvey a sample event in the upcoming fuel supply chain disruptions?
C: Yes.

Q: Will the Houston metropolitan region be struck again and by a seriously powerful storm where not just rain but fierce winds cause fuel refinery infrastructure to be damaged badly?
C: Yes.

Q: When?? This is the thousand dollar question!
C: In the next several years.

Q: Volcanoes? Earthquakes?
C: All coming.

Q: My channeling block is coming up again. I've run out of questions.
C: Your readers should submit questions, and to them we now speak; please do.

Q: Thank you, Esteemed Committee.
C: Our pleasure and honor.
