

Heavenly Realm

03 June 2017

A reader asks:

In most of the afterlife comments made by all the spiritual contacts, they all appear to relate to the first heavenly realm. As the Bible states "in my house there are many mansions."

On this basis could consideration be given to some constructive comment on these other realms? For example,

- ✧ Do people from earth arrive here after this lifetime?
- ⊕ What is the landscape like?
- ✠ Can first heaven dwellers move on to these other levels?

I believe many of the contacts to your site would be interested in this facet of the after life.

Responds The Committee:

Greetings, salutations and our welcome to the realms of which you inquire, for you are already in them; they surround you. You cannot see them, you say to yourself? Yes, you can, open your eyes and behold Heaven.

No, you think, this is not what Heaven should be, this is Earth.

The illusion of separation between them so strong it is, in humans. So brave a choice have you all made, so tough a split from yourselves have you selected.

To the realms of the afterlife we ask, what should they resemble and why must they be different from what surrounds you now? Different to the point where, ask you should?

Upon return to Heaven of your soul, you will arrive at a place of your choosing and design. It is not a place prepared, built or arranged by others, and the choice you have already made can be changed. Your arrival does not have to be what you have already chosen and it does not have to be what you have been told it should be.

You explore not mountains which have been created by tectonic force which did not consult your preferences. The apparent fixed environment of Earth is mutable, variable and completely up to you.

There will be many other souls, whose ideas, preferences and habits will be considered by you, just as yours will be considered by them. Many variations will be tried; where there is no time, there is no sequence or ordering thus no sensation of lost opportunity or cost thereof. All versions of Heaven which you and others occupy can be tested.

To your specific question; when your soul makes a permanent return to your home of Heaven, this will be in a circumstance of little distraction. Permanent means your physical body on Earth is no longer functioning, and you have chosen not to return to it. You leave your body daily, often several times, almost always as you sleep. Permanent return means departure is final.

Little distraction means absence of attraction, so the environment will contain almost no surroundings, in the great many cases of human returns, and we say, this is common for the return of souls from an incarnated life existence in many places in your galaxy and universe. This phase or stage of your soul's existence is not unique to Earth.

We suggest you imagine a room without walls, unable to be seen because of darkness beyond an illuminated area before you. The souls of all who choose to greet you will be in this illuminated zone. There might be a floor or there will not; you might choose to see the bottoms of legs of humans, animals and anything from your Earth life you wish be present, or the bottoms of what appear before you might fade into darkness. Faces and expressions we assure you, will be seen.

Your field of vision will be all around you; no turn of the head will be required to see what is alongside or behind you. You will focus on only what you choose to see, and this will be tunnel vision of what humans call three hundred sixty degrees.

There is only one realm of Heaven, but there are many places where you can go and you can and may create as many others as you prefer. The scenery and surroundings are what you choose them to be; you can select from one you already know, from one someone else has created or you can create your own.

On Earth we suggest art, which is the same. In Heaven you can modify portions of the art, such as the colors, and allow the rest of the work to remain as it was.

You will move from your location of arrival to other places as you choose; we say, you have already mapped out the steps you will follow. What you come to Earth to learn is what will be done during each step you scale, during your return home, and how much energy each will require, or the whole, you have placed already. This is also optional, planned and chosen; it can be resisted.

Humans have called some souls spirits, those who choose to remain close to the Earth environment, interacting with surroundings of which they are now a higher part.

Common to many souls upon return is a meeting with other souls with whom a life is being or has been shared, and most often the surroundings, the scenery and the landscape are chosen by the already returned soul, the host. The new arrival enters the environment, just as she or he entered environments on Earth. This supplies a similarity for the time a soul takes to review and consider the lessons of a life learned.

All souls in Heaven can and may move where they choose; there are no restrictions beyond the self-imposed. There are restrictions, we wish to make it certain that limits, constraints, barriers, borders and boundaries are abundant, however none involuntary. All are created by choice and respected in the same way.

Nevertheless a soul can go where one chooses, and has the ability to readily violate all covenants. Because a soul is free to roam aimlessly across the optional barriers well recognized, this does not occur. The fastest way to generate human interest is to prohibit knowledge and access; in Heaven the best way to limit knowledge and access is to state this intent.

In the case of the questioner, we provide a glimpse into what you shall encounter upon your return, many, many days from now when upon Earth you read these words.

Your first awareness will be a darkened area with a spotlight illuminating a dark floor in front of you; you will look down and see no feet, no legs and no body but your point-of-view will be exactly as high above this floor as your human eyes now rise above the floor upon which you might stand on Earth. Slowly the illuminated area will expand in all directions, and the darkened, invisible surroundings will become as bright as the growing spotlight. No shadows, seams, edges or corners will appear as your surroundings brighten. You will have the sensation of being inside a light box, however no sound will reflect and no speech will be heard.

You will see your family, friends and foes all appear as bright points of glowing light, moving towards you as if floating on air currents you cannot feel. Your thoughts will go to them, and their thoughts will come to you and all of you will be perfectly understood by all of you present. You will recognize each and all who appear with and before you, and you will briefly wonder how you know such detail of the person you know has died yet stands before you, and this brief sensation will pass, as you quickly remember who you and they truly are, in a crescendo of information which flows like music.

Each point of light will change into a human form, a person and then a memory of who each soul was in your human lives will come back to you as clearly as if just occurred a few Earth minutes before this encounter. Each of these people will also turn into the other people they have been for you in other lives and incarnations, past and future along the Earth timeline.

You will feel comfort, love and acceptance such as you have never felt upon this Earth in this body, and a sense of gratitude will overwhelm you.

You will break from this group with smaller groups of souls, and as each group coalesces to its purpose of review, all will find themselves before a large screen-like blank in another white, undecorated light box, exactly as the one which was just left behind. In the first one, there will have been several hundred souls and now your group will be smaller, just five or six. The life experience each of you had will lie before all of you and each of you will be able to wander into the scene and among the characters, each one a life each of you as souls has lived. You will feel every emotion and of all others, just as these other souls will feel yours. The purpose, meaning and lesson of the encounter will become clear in a way you never understood or in many cases, ever thought to consider. Until now.

You will look in, individually, upon all the souls who remain on Earth, incarnated as what humans will call your next of kin, your close friends and many who knew you. You will see what they say, you will know what they think and thought and you will observe all reactions of your passing. For this process, your Guardian Angel Guides will be with you, and together you will all review your script for a life plan. Your successes will be of great satisfaction.

You will next move to the souls of all you have wronged, and ask for forgiveness. This will be denied to you, because all whom you have wronged will return gratitude and appreciation for your acts, behavior and treatment. They will thank you for helping supply the opportunity of lessons, and you will at the same time reflect back on insensitivity, current recognition which you did not see, feel or consider at the time, you will understand the purpose and you will feel grateful for the forgiveness and gratitude now given to you, for misdeeds.

You will see landscapes, stars, nebulae, oceans, clouds, storms and winds of many varieties, many you have not seen on Earth. You will see colors you wonder how bright they could be, and hues and tints which on Earth do not exist to the human eye. You will be able to choose but so few do, because the sensations of what is already encountered are so beautiful, welcoming, uplifting and wonderful.

No compartments, limits, walls, barriers or fences will delineate realms you cannot experience, yet boundaries and borders will be everywhere, to show creation, development and advancement. You will cross some, stop at others and at yet at others, invited across you will be.

Soon, life on Earth as you have just finished it will come calling and with glee, joy and a bounce in your step will you return to the place and position you have chosen to look upon your life. You will be on the ground and feel as if you walk, but no legs move under you. You will think to walk up above a house and thus, you will. You will walk over the roof of all buildings where you have lived, studied, visited as easily and comfortably as down a sidewalk.

The trees, ground, concrete, dirt, garbage, gardens and gables below will move under you as you walk through the air and it will seem more natural than anything you have ever done.

You will see all the people you know and knew, who remain on Earth and you will approach them, smell, hear and know them but they will not know you are there. You will automatically, instinctively and instantly understand this. You will make efforts to gain the attention of some and you will be successful.

You will see your life, others' lives and the intertwined rope they have all weaved together as it leads to a great place you planned to visit, a place called understanding. You will know what you did not know before this incarnation. As you recognize and acknowledge the new understanding in yourself, so will you be recognized for it, more easily than if a badge upon your chest has been pinned.

All of your lives on Earth will fan out from you, like spokes on a wheel, and each of your lives will visit the others and they shall see one another, through the human eyes and understanding each life offered. You as your soul will simultaneously see yourself as observer, the examined person and as third party witness of both observer and examined, and they will connect.

You will feel your life plan, your life experience and your life success in company of and surrounded by your former Guardian Angels, all of whom will beam with a pride of accomplishment even you cannot surpass. You will be instantly indebted and in their obligation yet they will immediately release you, making it clear to you the honor was theirs, not yours. You were the giver of the gift and for your generosity you are to be recognized, they will say.

You will revisit all the pains and frustrations of your life and will cry with joy for them. Your admiration of the downtrodden, the disadvantaged and the oppressed on Earth will inflate as you could never as a human believe possible. You will see glimpses into the souls and selves of the many brave warriors of the Heavens who volunteer to be the deformed, the deficient, the derelict and the deviant. You will wonder how the universe could exist without such sacrifice, how the choice of such circumstance is precisely the opposite of what you believed as a human.

Then you will know you are home. You will remember who you are and what you do. The value of life will become the value of your soul. Your glow will illuminate the darkest of dark places anywhere you choose to go. A bright beacon of accomplishment you will become, as your humble gratitude grows. More light will come to you as more desire to avoid attention rises in direct, exact proportion.

Your white marble mansion with columns will open its doors, inside you will enter and the outside will disappear as the interior grows ever more ornate, beautiful and calm.

Then you will know you are home and forever.

Do return, we wish you all reading this. Be well, one and all.
