

Negative Mass

16 April 2017

No, this does not mean an unpleasant church service, even though today is Easter Sunday. Speaking of Easter, the day Jesus Christ rose from the dead, I believe we should ask our good friend Yeshua to pay a quick visit so I can ask a few questions before turning to the science subject of the day. Jay Cee hasn't graced these pages in a while.

Q: Jesus, this is the day you are believed to have risen from the dead after your crucifixion on Friday. Did you?

JC: That day was $\frac{3}{4}$ of a million before this one and I rose from the dead the way we all do, every time we wake up. Oh, right I understand! My body came back to life! I apologize for being sarcastic, I enjoy the joke because I enjoy the energy of life and death and eternal life of which death is only a stage. I was in a coma, as I have told you before, and came back to better physical consciousness. This was my rising. Just like getting out of bed with a terrible sensation of headache and sickness from too much alcohol before sleeping.

Q: Did that ever happen to and around you, too much to drink?

JC: Only twice in my case, I learned my lesson young but yes, I often saw others drink to excess.

Q: I didn't plan to ask you for a quick hello, as you know, so I will just ask, is there any message you have for the website's readership?

JC: Yes, I bring a message from all of us who were what on Earth are called a religious leader, although I was not. I was only thought to have been one long after my body's physical death, so I was most certainly and decidedly not a religious leader. I led no religion and achieved great annoyance to even disgust among leaders of the religion in which I was born and raised. You could say I was the anti-religionist! But I did not try to do this...others chose to see what I did as being the anti-Christ, before the concept of an anti-Christ had been developed.

My fellow souls and the once experienced among them, as well known leaders of Earth faiths, we all wish to send you this collective message, to send it all who come to read these words. We know it is a tiny slice of humanity, so if you wish, consider yourselves special to have our message. For you all to frame us properly in the human way, we are the souls who were on Earth once living as Gautama Buddha, Mohammed, myself, Joseph Smith, Mahatma Gandhi, Saint Peter, Saint Anthony and Saint Patrick. Together.

Our message: the links between and among you are far stronger, thicker and sturdy than superficial differences. The differences receive the most attention. This is fine if mixed with the proportional amount of similarity, which is often not the case. Our message: practice recognizing when a difference crosses your thoughts. This can be easy or a good challenge, because the habit can be so automatic, it happens before it is realized. For some of you it might be a few tries before you tune into and become good at detecting when you are thinking of a difference between yourself and others distinct from you.

Once this is happening - the difference becomes noticed but is now recognized as happening - then it is easy to also think of a good similarity. For example, that strange person also has two

C: An interface. It can also be a doorway, a portal or point of entry and exit.

Q: When we detect the strange behavior of a black hole, it is not a collapsed star?

C: No, it is a revolving doorway into a parallel physical environment. The other side of it has the same effect occur, and it often equally puzzled.

Q: This is mind blowing. We can enter a parallel reality?

C: Yes, however you are converted into it and do not perceive the conversion. As if you one day awoke from a deep sleep with brown eyes, which were always blue. You would not see the difference and it would not matter to you, only to others who remember blue. A mirror would reveal the change but it would not matter to your ability to see.

Q: Is we passed through a portal into a parallel reality, would we be able to return?

C: It is very unlikely, you would effectively disappear from the one of which you are a part.

Q: Does an equally exact copy have to come through the other way?

C: No, but an equivalent mass does, to maintain equilibrium and balance. This means that matter of any form will not pass into a parallel reality until an equal amount passes in the opposite direction. There need not be a similarity of structure or substance, simply equal mass.

Q: Passing into a parallel dimension, reality or universe means suicide from & for this one?

C: Yes, physically. Your soul does not die or undergo metamorphosis.

Q: Why can't the shift occur without the super cooling of whatever that stuff is?

C: It can; what the scientists were doing is created inside the environment of one half of the parallelity; the switch has to be generated from both sides.

Q: Why do the lasers achieve this?

C: Light photons are not subject to the same forces of physics as more dense matter. The lasers' light penetrates and reflects into the parallel existence where the negative mass or anti-matter is found.

Q: So anti-matter means negative mass?

C: Yes, the latter describes the condition or state of the former. Positive mass is matter. The better way to say this in your human language of English, is to say matter has a polarity and when it is reversed, it moves in an opposite but equal way. This is also called electricity.

Q: This is the negative acceleration mentioned?

C: Yes.

Q: The cooling slows down the orbiting electrons to the point where the light from the lasers can reverse the direction of rotation?

C: Yes, and when this happens, the movement, specifically pulsing vibrations of the nucleus' protons and neutrons likewise reverses direction. This is why the behavior is described to be similar to a wave. As you know well, waves through water are not the water but its movement, the force not the water itself. As with sound and many other wave motions. The fluid begins to fall under the influence of the same energy that creates waves and movements. It is under this influence anyway, however not all substances behave in a similar way that wave energy is observed. Wave energy through solids does not distort the shape of the solid medium very much.

Q: Are there parallel existences at your level of energetic existence?

C: Not in the same way, no.

Q: Negative mass and anti-matter, are a property or quality of physical dynamics of the vibrational level we humans occupy. These things are not relevant in higher dimensions?

C: Correct and essentially, they disappear.

Q: Esteemed Committee, thank you.

C: An honor or pleasure, as you choose to see. Be well and full, one and all. Do return often.
