

New Shadow World Order Government

06 December 2017

The 21 bell ringer subjects:

- | | |
|-------------------------|----------------------------|
| 1. Alien ET Information | 12. Oppression |
| 2. Atlantis | 13. Human Evolution |
| 3. JFK | 14. Trump |
| 4. Cancer | 15. Dissonance |
| 5. Food | 16. Alien ETs |
| 6. Cuba conspiracy | 17. Elected Spies |
| 7. WTC | 18. Fake News |
| 8. Syria | 19. Invisible Hands |
| 9. Attention | 20. Solutions |
| 10. Power & Control | 21. Earth World Government |
| 11. Big Bank | |

1. Alien ET Information

Q: Esteemed Committee, thank you for coming to address these twenty one things.

C: And many others. Please go on.

Q: Erik Medhus says that government officials aren't trying to hide alien ET contacts but rather the information exchanged. This seems inaccurate; when have alien ETs been discussed by a government official with the press or general public? Not on my watch, as best as I remember.

C: Contact with alien ETs is concealed because if revealed, the information exchanged would also require revelation. To achieve the second, the first is done also despite not being the objective.

Q: The information, if put into practice, would erode government authority, power and influence. Why is that resisted if such knowledge leads to material improvements?

C: Do you want to lose your job, career and reason to exit your front door on a regular, or daily basis? This is what is perceived by holders of government authority.

Q: So we don't really control our government?

C: Oh, yes you do and for this reason the information is kept from you. To prevent your ability to control government to the perceived detriment of government.

Q: How did we get so far, that generally beneficial information is considered dangerous to specific interests and kept away from the general population it will benefit?

C: By matter of human choice and course, and a reading of mankind's history reveals this clearly. Because the weather affects food and well being, lightning an obvious example, the inability to create or control it naturally leads to avoidance and protection. This reaction is applied to many situations where events appear to threaten established order, therefore well being, when the events cannot be controlled and there fore vigorous control is exercised when the arrangement can be controlled.

2. Atlantis

Q: What is the origin of the books Erik mentions?

C: The civilization of Atlantis.

Q: Hidden because?
C: There is not much government involved.

Q: Is my electricity project part of this information and refers to it?
C: Yes.

Q: When I go for a patent, will I be approached?
C: Yes and if you decline the enormously generous offer of money, the patent will be approved and seized in the name of public benefit, in order to make an example of you to others.

Q: The money they'd offer can be taken away, there's no way I could safely put it in a bank, tax authorities alone could seize it under very legitimate sounding false pretexts. I can't hide and don't want to. No matter what form of wealth into which I'd convert the money, they'd find me and it and take it away if they want to. Or they could promise a series of payments, "buy" the patent rights and then stop paying. Better I just give it away.

C: Make certain you do so in a very public way, so reprisals cannot be easily hidden. Prevention is the objective of suppression, once the information has been divulged and disclosed in such public way that prevention or suppression will not be effective, you will be ignored beyond vicious lies spread about you.

Q: An old subject here, so one more question only; is the information about crystals and unlimited energy the same thing as the free energy mentioned about subject 1?

C: No; the "free energy" mentioned is thermal and localized and uses no fuel or cost beyond the devices which produce it. The crystals and unlimited amounts refers electricity, which will never be free. There will also be a cost to transport and distribute it. Electricity requires a physical conductor; electricity without a medium of conduction is magnetism. They are converted from one to the other and back, as humans know and do very well.

3. JFK

Q: An old subject here, also. CIA and organized crime put JFK in office?

C: Funded political campaigns and used influence to ensure information and publicity were positive when compared to Richard Nixon, who was turned into a villain with news information controlled by these two entities.

Q: This goes both ways, however.

C: Always; such organizations hedge their bets to come out ahead no matter who wins.

Q: The decision to release alien ET encounter information was not the sole motivation to assassinate JFK?

C: No, it was only a part but it represented a greater concern; inability to control the president of the USA.

Q: So has every president been under such threat if they proceed too far?

C: Yes, and many world leaders also. This is not limited to the USA.

4. Cancer

Q: The money making aspect I get, but who creates the stuff?

C: Pharmaceutical and food interests.

Q: Why food and disease?

C: Food and sales are the motivation, the regular and continued consumption of many food ingredients leads to the cancer. These ingredients also help ongoing sales. Diet carbonated beverages are an example.

Q: Mosquito borne diseases?

C: They earn a lot of money, and the exercise over medical treatment payment called Obamacare is one factor, it is a way to earn more money.

Q: The money can just be printed.

C: This is done also, but can only occur to a certain extent before being revealed and undermining the desired effect. There has to be an activity which money will wrap and represent, and then printing of money can be and is done. Because medical treatment is such a large segment of the economy, as is food, these are areas targeted for earning money. How much evidence exists to demonstrate the negative effects of excess alcoholic beverage consumption yet the marketing of the products is vigorous, as is consumption. Approximately one of every ten people in most nations regularly abuse ethyl alcohol. If this were cut in half, the effect on those companies and government tax revenues would be considered intolerable.

5. Food

Q: This leads to food. What happens there?

C: The more prepared and processed the food, the easier it can be altered. The modification to food is largely hormonal and genetic, to increase yields. To make production more efficient and earn more money. The same amount of land, fuel, equipment and work which produces more wheat, corn or soybeans is the objective. The genetic modification has almost no effect upon the person eating the food. But is done to also make the crops more resistant to pesticides, and these are the true threat. Bleached, ground wheat, for example, has very little pesticide because of the process to remove color and texture. Cracked whole wheat will retain more of the pesticides, if these chemicals are applied.

The more processed and ready-to-eat the foods, prepackaged for example, the greater the risk because of preservatives and other ingredients which maintain color, texture and other characteristics. Restaurant foods also contain many pre-packaged sauces, condiments and ingredients with such potentially dangerous ingredients.

Q: In other words, cut out lots of restaurant food, pre-packaged, pre-cooked and already prepared foods. Eliminate sugars, sodas, sweetened drinks and eat food as close to raw as possible.

C: Yes, but well rinsed and washed with soap if raw and well cooked if that is necessary.

6. Cuba

Q: Have such plots been hatched and proposed regarding other nations?

C: Yes, nearly every conflict since Korea in which world powers were involved.

Q: Cuba hardly seems worth it.

C: The Soviet Union was the objective, not Cuba. Once the withdrawal began, Cuba has been largely written off by the USA.

7. WTC 11 September 2001

Q: Would the buildings have collapsed anyway?

C: Yes, in all cases but that was not able to be known with certainty. The total destruction would be sufficient to justify military force.

Q: 7 WTC which collapsed later that day was an unexpected fringe benefit?

C: Yes, it succumbed to the same softening thus weakening of the steel structure but was not brought down by explosive charge, either as cause or contribution.

Q: Towers 1 and 2 had explosives in them?

C: Yes as insurance, to make certain the buildings would come down.

Q: Did the Bush Administration know this?

C: No. The elements responsible understood that Vice President Gore, had he won the election, would not have responded to such attacks in a way deemed suitable to their interests. Attempts to attack the USA and interests have been tried for several decades; most are foiled and concealed. The general public never discovers their existence, principally so the agents can repeat their success with new threats. When the plot to carry out the WTC attacks was hatched, it was allowed to go forward.

Q: Why does this happen?

C: Elements behind these decisions believe that a majority of American voters are too pacifist to pro-actively prevent the attacks, and most politicians are popularity, risk adverse freaks who will never risk their position. This sets the table and the attackers play into the process like fools. They make wildly naïve assumptions about American ideas, attitudes and espionage abilities.

8. Syria

Q: Why give Syrians money to buy weapons?

C: Eliminate as many would-be refugees and terrorists as possible, and curry favor with other nations whose companies manufacture the weapons. The terrorist is the soldier fighter, in almost all cases. Once the failure of the conflict becomes apparent, this soldier flees the region as becomes a refugee. Both the money giving nation, such as France, and the seller nation, such as China and Russia, see the Middle East nations as lead by and full of, unsophisticated brutes.

9. Attention

Q: What's the risk?

C: Naming names or providing information which can be verified in the way humans will accept generally. Information which could compromise the established interests.

Q: Something you'll never supply.

C: To anyone. This process will require the same human investigation and exposure that was necessary to build the institutions in the first place.

10. Power & Control

Q: Seems so obvious, and should anything be done about it?

C: This is the human decision. Most of you reading about this desire to maintain powerful control and earn money, will be upset at the effects of the dismantling. Oppressors only operate with the consent of the oppressed.

As we have offered before, do not participate in an election then watch the effects. Ignore the political machinations and allow what is manipulated to happen, and simply abstain from the next election also. By the third mass absence of voters, the established political order will fall onto such chaos, they will nearly completely eliminate themselves as a public institution, where the constituents did nothing more than stay away from the polls and say nothing the wake of whatever follows.

11. Big Bank

Q: This is US Federal Reserve?

C: Yes, and also the Eurozone Monetary Authority and many other smaller such entities, coordinated by the larger ones. Essentially the Bank of England, European Monetary Authority and the US Federal Reserve act as one, but the ultimate power is the US Federal Reserve and its agent the US Treasury.

12. Oppression

Q: Are the constant calls for eliminating the right to keep and bear arms in the USA is connected to this?

C: Yes.

Q: Do Americans really have the ability to provide armed resistance to such groups?

C: No, because of lack of coordination. Racial and ethnic division is a benefit to an overbearing government, it makes setting one group against another much easier. The latest group to fall victim to this is that of immigrants and illegal aliens from Latin America, inside the USA. They are played like fools with their emotions, as part of a greater plan.

Moreover, citizen weaponry is only a match for organized force if used in a large way, and there is so little knowledge and training and therefore willingness to resist armed aggression, it could not be mounted.

The risk to a government is the public outcry, so troublemakers are rounded up individually and quietly. They rarely suspect they're even being targeted and they're usually taken away in what looks like a normal traffic stop. Federal agents disguised as local police will simply wait until there is no passing traffic or witnesses and abduct the target.

13. Human evolution

Q: Erik's sentiments and advice sound syrupy sweet and nice, but impractical. How does mankind achieve this?

C: The answer is simple; find the person, organization, politician, entertainer or celebrity who provokes the strongest negative emotion in you. For some of you this is very easy; for others such as our esteemed stenographer and typist, this is more of a challenge but can be done. Once this target has been identified, examine this person and ask yourself about her or his life, challenges, hopes, dreams, frustrations and problems. Set aside dislike, disdain and derision; these may remain however look at this person as if s/he were your neighbor. Give this some thought. Move on to the next person disliked.

If this process were done with regularity, the world would be changed in short order, and many perceived problems would not be simply solved, they would disappear.

14. Trump

Q: What is Trump off about?

C: He sees the United Nations as a debating society hostile to American advancement, interest and progress, made up of many nations who would like to see the USA taken down a notch which might allow some of those many nations to rise.

This superficial view is accurate however The UN represents a platform for cooperation and world advancement. Trump does not see this and it is about this which he is wrong. The obstacle to advancement is that many nations who decry the USA would act in a similar way in the same position. There must be willingness to acknowledge and change course by all participants. The USA is in the ideal position to lead this. In one way Trump is accurate, and specified this in a speech to the United Nations. He stated that the USA will pursue its interests and that other nations should pursue theirs also. This can happen with cooperation, and implies that no one nation should interfere with the interests of another. Trump's detractors did not pay close attention to this point, and so it received little public attention. This idea does point Trump and the USA in the right direction.

15. Dissonance

Q: What does this mean in practice, how is it achieved?

C: Consider the worst thing a coordinated effort at oppression might do. Then examine your reaction, and the collective reaction of everyone affected or observing. Do not react the natural, expected way. Either ignore the oppression or react in a way entirely unexpected.

16. Alien ETs

Q: Afraid of us? Really?

C: Yes, but not literally. They would and have taken steps to defend themselves, mostly by concealment, and are prepared to resist human efforts which might prove harmful to them, either intentionally or unintentionally.

They will and have remained at a safe distance, or cloaked or disguised. In the many instances where contact has been made, they defend themselves by disabling our weapons before these can be used. They do not and have no need to fight back.

The concern is mass use of nuclear weapons. As we have often described on these pages. The principal effort is made by human Guardian Angel Guides, however alien ETs are quite aware of their own guides and guardians, agree with and understand the threat to the universe of souls from a major human extinction of physical lives, a great disturbance to the force, a saying made common by a popular movie.

17. Elected Spies

Q: How many?

C: Enough to cause mayhem, blockage and deadlock, if necessary.

Q: How are such people recruited? Are they already politically ambitious or are they picked out of some other profession, such as truck driving or carpentry, then fashioned into one?

C: Usually they are already in the business of politics and are offered money. From issue to issue and event to event, they are told to do and vote in certain directions and given enormous incentives. They are also slowly drawn into compromising positions such as with romantic partners and other personal circumstances, the effects of which are used as blackmail.

Q: How many can be found in major world governments?

C: About one third of the elected officials at national levels are such elected infiltrators. Not all are used all the time; only with the required minimum amount and divergent ideas to achieve the ends desired. Often several can be at great odds with one another, completely unaware they are both paid and promised things by the same, exact interests. The objective is blockage through chaos. Many of them do not know and would not believe there are as many as exist, and this assists them in believing they are unique, valuable and somewhat special. They are really quite disposable but will be much less willing to do their masters' bidding absent a notion they are better, special and privileged. A Senator from a Midwestern state is embroiled in controversy over personal behavior and likely to be forced from his seat, as this channeling session takes place. He is being disposed of and the delay involves efforts to ensure a replacement is even more compliant. His personal behavior was his own decision, and he performed well in his role as Senator of disruption, handsomely rewarded for the work. His successor will be the same.

18. Fake News

Q: This seems as obvious as the noon day sun.

C: Not to many news consumers, who eagerly consume negative information which feeds their preferred ideas and points-of-view. Positive information is also fabricated, to lull readers across the board into a sense of fairness from the outlet in question. We will offer a recent example; the New York Times ran a long article about a well known cable news program host who is the political adversary of what the newspaper's editorial board prefers. The article was well done, accurate and fair, even favorable, to its subject. This newspaper has no intention of continuing to be fair and even-handed, this was purposely done to prepare general readership and political pundits for the next vicious assault on not this article's subject but another target deemed to offer an equally good attack value.

Q: Has faked, falsified news been going on for a long time?

C: Yes.

Q: Is it across the spectrum, or coming mostly from one direction towards another at the current moment?

C: It is centered around public policy and elected officials, and it is mostly travelling from the left. Little of what takes place originates from the right side of public policy, at the moment.

This is not a suggestion of purity; it is nothing but a difference in strategy. Focusing on winning elections will come more to prominence as the impotent national contests draw closer. The voting public is not considered to have a long or good enough memory to vote based on a steady trend and analysis of results over time. Political operatives believe the winning candidate prevails because s/he puts on the best show over the weeks and days which precede the election.

The news issue is coordinated with political operatives and committees, with knowledge, consent and input of many politicians and their staff members.

19. Invisible Hands

Q: Will the real and true power people ever be found out?

C: Mostly, no.

20. Solutions

Q: This advice sounds like "follow your dream" which mostly becomes a recipe for being broke and poor.

C: No. Following a person's passion will always bring about well being, including financial. The idea a vocation which provides a practical, regular source of money is necessary fits with central authority ideas, the people who benefit principally.

Q: How do we teach these ideas?

C: By example; parents must encourage their children to disagree with them. Most do not and far fewer tolerate disagreement, because they see this as a challenge to parental authority. This pattern is established early in childhood and is very difficult to break, and when a young adolescent begins to explore ever riskier things compared to young childhood, parents must at that very moment state their trust and confidence and explain to their children they hope their children will learn well and be careful.

This encourages an exchange of ideas no central authority can crack, influence or eventually control.

21. Earth World Government

Q: This is a real problem, as I see it. Not many nations will make an agreement which contains both concessions and gains, which they think will compromise their authority and control.

C: Because the issue is still approached with a mindset which underpins the rise of fascism as studied and set forth by its founder Gentile. The use of national pride becomes a platform, enemies are identified and offenses, real or imagined, are trotted out as examples of the risks involved.

The world governments will come about when mankind understands its place in the galaxy and stellar neighborhood and accepts the benefits such governing arrangements have achieved on many other worlds. Humanity will also be shown examples of planets where individual sovereign nations are still prevalent which have followed both similar and vastly different courses of development.

The examination of these alternatives will set the table for the eventual adoption of a world order.

Humans will have to accept the presence of alien extraterrestrials, resolve irrational human fear over threats, then accept aliens as occasional visitors who are not going to populate or dominate Earth. Once you realize they are simply given information, the choice of which will always be YOURS to use, and in what way you might use them, will the path towards a central Earth order commence.