King Arthur

Q: Is there any truth to the legend of King Arthur and the round table knights?

C: Yes, there is much truth underneath the fiction. The many stories are creations based on memories of true events. The knights were a ruling council.

Q: If so, where is Camelot today?

C: In two locations, first in a place called Wiltshire today, to the south of a place within called Swindon. Barbury Castle is the name given. The location then moved to Cardiff and the knights met inside a castle, which still exists.

Decline In World Population

Q: It was mentioned that world population will decline by about half, over time, before stabilisation. How long will it take for the decline to take place until stabilisation. 50 years, 100 years?

C: The human population will not reach a replacement birth rate for several centuries, well after the lifetimes of all of you reading this have ended. The shrink is already beginning now.

Q: What is the cause of the decline. war, famine, disease, widespread toxin or RNA modification?

C: None of the above, reduced fertility which is already happening.

Q: Will the 50% reduction happen evenly around the world, or will certain areas decline more or less than others?

C: The reduction will be uneven. It is currently occurring in the industrialized nations, where both birth and marriage rates have reduced. This decline will spread across Earth.

Q: What is causing the decline in birth?

C: The apparent initial cause would seem to be low marriage rates, however this is true, especially in the industrialized nations. The movement which seeks to empower women has placed career achievement and independence from males, as a priority above motherhood. Motherhood is still generally viewed as nice but it is lower on the list. This is the apparent cause however an energetic cause also exists, which human scientific methods cannot detect or measure.

Fluctuation of and from solar energy, itself caused to fluctuate by energy moving through the galaxy, is affecting human fertility directly. This effect will grow stronger over the next several decades, and also affect many animals.

Harris vs Trump

Q: The 2024 American presidential election will probably be between Harris and Trump and the esteemed GAG forecasts Trump to win. Will Trump become the 48th American president, or will the Illuminati fix the vote count (again!) and install Harris instead?

C: Not the illuminati, however we see the desire to use this name for the hidden controlling powers, only as powerful as humans allow them to be. The attempt to keep Mr. Trump from reaching the USA's presidency will be made again, however the fixers attempting this will be treading upon dangerous ground. Their strength derives from secrecy; it is not easy and often nearly impossible to strike a hidden target. The target is not known to exist; and in practice and fact today, almost no humans would believe in the existence of a small group of controllers who seek to and often successfully manipulate human behavior, ideas and attitudes.

The fixing of an election only requires a small number of improper votes. As the citizens in the USA grow more and more frustrated with government, the larger shall become the number of illegitimate votes required, greatly increasing the risk such a scheme would be exposed generally.

If Mr. Trump chooses to run again for the presidency, which is nearly certain at this point, he will be legitimately elected. What efforts his adversaries make is not yet decided; if the risk of preventing him from taking office is deemed too great, then the hidden opposition will employ a containment strategy, which will not be successful if attempted.

Coronavirus Vaccine Types

Q: Many of the vaccines currently deployed are ineffective or even harmful, including

- mRNA – (BioNTech, Moderna) messes up our immunity system and ineffective against new variants;
- Inactivated virus – (mainly Chinese types) ineffective against new variants
- Adenovirus Vector – (AstraZeneca, Sputnik, Johnson & Johnson) ineffective against new variants and massive side-effects (including blood clot in brain)

There is another type of vaccine coming up, Sub-unit, such as Covovax/Novavax. Will this work better and have less harmful side-effect?

C: Yes. It will be a traditional vaccine, using neutralized viruses to trigger an immune response in the way it naturally and normally occurs with a parasite, bacteria or virus.

Q: Is the corona virus mutating the way many viruses do, causing the mRNA vaccines to be ineffective?

C: Yes but as we have explained, the loss of effect is something being discovered now with the mRNA technology. If no intruder arrives, the immune response to such intruder fades. For the mRNA vaccine to produce effective immunity which lasts a long time, a recipient should be exposed to the virus shortly thereafter. In most cases of exposure to the virus, the immunity will be lifelong.

Even if the exposure is to the same strain or type the mRNA targets, sufficient time passing between the injection and the introduction of the virus will allow the virus to propagate. The immune system does not develop a blueprint when genetic changes are made from the back end; the production of antibodies is stimulated but these are not produced endlessly. If no loner needed, the immune system stops production but remains ready to make them again if a known intruder re-arrives.

Black-out (world-wide) from Solar Flare-up

Q: When will it come, approximately? In another words, do we need to rush out and stock up on candles, bottled water, (perhaps even ammunition) etc. now?

C: Solar flare or flash are commonly used terms but not ideal; because such event will not be visible on Earth in general. These are only detected through telescopes but the force and effects which reach and occur to Earth cannot be known when a coronal mass ejection happens.

Unlike a magnetic pulse which could be created inside Earth's atmosphere from a nuclear detonation, the energy coming from a solar event will not cause permanent damage to electricity generation and transmission equipment. Smaller electric and electronic devices will be affected and in some cases damaged, sometimes permanently.

The power generation grids will be able to be re-started how this will take several days to weeks in some places, because it has not happened on such a wide scale.

The timing of the event is supremely difficult for us to fix on the human calendar. A dart is being thrown at a twisted, undulating line with the objective of striking an object moving along the coiled course, the release of the dart also unknown.

We shall say, this event will not occur in human calendar year 2022.

Matrix & Reality

Q: Dreams feel as vivid as real life to me, I always wonder if dreams are real and our reality is just a dream. Is it possible that when we leave our "real home" in the spiritual realm (or Heaven) to be incarnated in the physical universe, we are actually entering into a collective virtual reality, similar to that in the movie "Matrix"? In another words, is our physical universe actually an imaginary construct based on collective agreement among all participating souls, and it will vanish when all souls return to heaven?

C: Dreams are real life. You mean to say, when you consider yourself awake, that your memory of a dream is similar to if not the same as the memory of a physical experience which occurred when you are awake.

You and all humans are in your real home now. You are in Heaven but using a body to provide the sensation that you are not, because the use of a body offers separation and experiences unavailable without the body.

The idea dreams are a virtual reality is simply a reinforced notion of the physical body being paramount in the existence of a human. Your soul is far more than a human, which is but the role a soul plays to achieve incarnation.

You and nearly everyone has a memory of a true experience, and often the memory of a dream is equally vibrant, vivid and able to be re-called. The reason for the similarity is because both are real, the one as much as the other.

If anything can be imagined, it exists. The only difference between human definitions of real and imaginary, is the five senses physical environment.

Yes, the universe is created by thoughts, just as human thoughts create Earth and everything on it.

Increase in Rage and Violence

Q: Since the onset of the Coronavirus pandemic, incidents of rage and violence in the US seem to have risen sharply. Examples include almost daily disruption by unruly passengers on airplanes, seemingly random physical attacks on coloured people, especially Asians, not to mention massacres by gunmen (or boys holding guns). This also seems to be a unique phenomenon in the US. Are incidents of rage and violence really rising significantly in the US, or is it just an impression based on more coverage by news media? Can the news coverage somehow encourage the loonies to vent their frustration with violence?

C: Crime and violence have increased, but the news and attention given to it have also increased, causing an amplification effect in public perception. This is not unique to the USA in any way, but the coverage given to it creates this perception, intentionally. The idea that a specific group is purposely targeted, is a media amplification. This is done to inflate emotion over racist attacks, but is not occurring. The increases in rage and violence are not aimed at a specific group.

The purpose of the increased attention is to provide justification for more control. Yes, reporting on rage can encourage more incidents, which feeds the purpose of the media controllers. They like more reports, which naturally lead to more concern, worry and fear all of which can be used to impose more control, checks and restrictions.

Q: If the increase is real, what is the cause? Why are only Americans so angry?

C: Not just Americans; the USA has seen none of the vigorous anti-restriction protests which Europe has. The causes are obvious; being told what to do, losing control over life because work, jobs, salaries have been taken away, combined with commands and requirements imposed in order to create well being, but which are not working.

The world over the message is being repeated that mRNA injections are needed, that follow up booster shots are needed and that restrictions must continue. The anger is the result, it is intentional and will continue to be used to justify control.

Space Exploration, ET and the Shift

Q: There is renewed interest in manned space exploration lately, including planned missions to the Moon (by Chinese), to Mars (by the US), and a new space station (by Chinese).

Disclosure of ET sightings surely helps increase interest in space exploration. Will effort in space exploration be cut-back when the Shift comes and much of long distance transportation curtailed? If so, that would be such a shame.

C: Yes, outer space exploration will drop off the radar. Humans are essentially limited to orbits below the Van Allen Belts, until a sufficiently light and effective radiation barrier is discovered or given to humans by Alien ET visitors.

The Shift and Long Distance Transportation

Q: Massive solar flare and movement in magnetic poles will render navigation difficult, and hence curtail much of long distance transportation. But that will come to pass (in a decade or two?) and surely old navigation technique (e.g. radio beacon) can also be re-installed and employed again. Once navigation is made possible again, will long distance transportation be revived, and the world can go back to moving goods and people readily?

C: Yes and no. The problem will be fuel cost due to limited availability. This drop off in demand for jet aircraft use will follow the forced reduction in use. Bear in mind, ocean going vessels will also be affected. Demand for goods moved between continents will drop off sharply.

Q: The new way of life: 50% unemployment, no shipment of cheap Chinese consumer goods and electronic gadgets everywhere, and everything stays local and basic may appeal to some people, but others may want to travel and improve everyone's livelihood by trading goods across oceans. Other than the ability to conduct long distance transportation, is there any other impediment to prevent revival of exchange of goods and people across oceans?

C: No, not beyond desire to change, which will most certainly come about. The large majority of humans do not travel by air ever, so they will not miss its demise. The ones who will miss it, who have done it a lot, will be forced to adapt. The desire of doing so will fade away.

Q: How long will Pope Francis reign? Will there be some kind of trouble in Vatican while he is in office or after he leaves. If so, what is going to happen in Vatican?

C: Pope Francis will stay until death. This information is never available. There is always trouble I and with the Vatican, we suggest you mean a scandal which becomes public? No, nothing significant.

Q: In which countries of the world can we expect big earthquakes, Volcanic Eruptions and Tsunamis in 2022? Approximately how many people will die due to these events?

C: In many nations shall these events occur, mostly the regions already prone to seismic upheaval but a few surprises will happen. The death tolls will be in the thousands, over the year, spread among the events which occur.

Q: In the apparitions of Garabandal, Spain, Conchita who witnessed it said that first would come a world-wide warning. Then, within the next 12 months, will come the Miracle. After this, if people still do not repent, will come the Chastisement. What are the exact events which would happen as the "World-wide warning", "Miracle" and "Chastisement" and in which year would these events take place?

C: These events are not exact, this prediction or forecast simply refers to geophysical events about which you are already aware, such as earthquakes, volcanoes and tsunamis. Just as lunar eclipses and blood moons were once used to provoke fear thus compliance, so intends this prediction. When the geophysical events occur, they will be described as God's wrath.

Q: What will be the reason/causes for the second and the third oil shocks?

C: Geophysical events in other locations, reducing permanently the ability to produce crude oil from the locations affected by the event.

Q: Will there be a period of calm between the first and the second oil shocks? How much time, in terms of years or months, can we expect the period of calm to last?

C: Yes however this depends upon the understanding of calm. It would be argued roads have become safe, if car crash rates drop by eighty percent, from one year to a similar period one or two years later, and this reduction is sustained. The twenty percent will strongly argue otherwise. So will it be seen as a calm period because no geophysical events are happening to set off another dramatic and sudden decrease in the capability to produce crude oil. Other geophysical events will still occur.

Q: Can we expect coastal inundation due to a rise in sea level to occur within the next 5 years?

C: Yes.

Q: Will the big coronal mass ejection from the sun causing blackouts and damage to satellites happen in 2022?

C: No.

Q: Shall we see a period of calm and economic improvement close to pre-COVID levels after the coming spell of oil shock and turbulent period?

C: No. Mankind is in a turbulent period now, self-generated to be certain.

Q: Will China engage in war with any country in the near future?

C: No.

Q: Will there be any incident of meteorites falling to Earth in massive numbers, looking like fire falling from sky, occur in 2022 or in the near future?

C: No. Meteor showers with many burning up in the atmosphere will continue to occur, but few will reach the surface of Earth, or come close enough to have any effect.

Q: Has the soul we knew as Jesus taken rebirth now or will be born soon? If so, what will be his role in the Shift?

C: No and no.

Q: Will there be a mass migration of people from / within India and deaths in large numbers due to the Shift?

C: No, not by the local understanding of mass deaths. Deaths however will occur.

Q: Many indicators are signaling that the economy and the stock markets will start going down by the end of February 2022. Is this going to be the turning point with no return in the U.S. and even world economy?

C: The economic effects of recent world events will be felt through 2022 but it will not be easy to determine or pinpoint when a permanent decline begins. This downward course will come when the effects from the first oil shock or price increase and supply shortage occur. Bear in mind, the price of crude oil will fall as production recovers, only to be affected again. Over time, the price of crude oil will go ever higher, as it oscillates up and down as the result of the shocks and economic effects.

Independent of this, runaway money printing and resulting inflation are making their effects felt and will cause overall economic retraction themselves, however the more wealthy humans among you will take advantage of this and not suffer a decline in purchasing power. This is not a permanent situation, just what shall begin to occur as year 2022 wears on.

Q: Will the existing mRNA and other vaccine suppliers be successful in keeping the Novavax vaccine from being approved for use in USA and Canada, or will they only manage to delay its approval?

C: No. Efforts to both gain for oneself but prevent competitor vaccines, will backfire if attempted. There is little incentive at the moment, in the USA, for the mRNA vaccines to be approved. The authorities have given authorization for emergency use, but have not issued a final approval. Given the widespread application, no final approval is needed, many people are choosing to receive them and many organizations are imposing them as a condition of employment, already. The pharmaceutical companies have received legal immunity and are also not disclosing negative side effect and resulting death information, attempting to and so far succeeding in keeping such information sealed for many decades.

Q: Will The USA Supreme Court rule to continue or strike down federal government mandates and commands for citizens to become vaccinated?

C: The court will strike them down.
