

Attention Increase

21 May 2023

A week or two ago (...some of y'all will remember better than might I...) a brief discussion developed regarding attention, manifestation and development; giving something more increases it, reducing attention lessens.

If there were Laws of Metaphysics I believe the title of this post would be one; in fact, maybe I should write a short book –a non-fiction novella/novelette– with that title; would the publisher like it? Y'all would have to review & revise the manuscript first; please comment on the idea, ipor favor y gracias!

Q: Esteemed Committee, what does this mean for the individual? Everyone everywhere hears about overall trends but what really matters to a person, is: how can s/he get more of the good and less of the bad? As long as it happens (or doesn't) to the one person, or to family, or to close (or -ish) friends, one cares (or doesn't care) very much. What does this mean for the individual?

C: It means two things, with subparts of each. First the individual can turn towards or away with a direct in– or decrease for her/himself. Secondly: the matter or issue at hand can grow from the general attention which fuels it, to affect a person otherwise unaware, thus unable to give attention.

Q: Please give examples.

C: For the first this would be interaction with a stray animal. For the second would be surrounding political process.

Q: What are the subparts?

C: Creation or extinguishment.

Q: S'il vous plaît, expliquez. (Four languages are primarily used in South, Central & North America. I'm $\frac{3}{4}$ there but will be forever attempting the remaining $\frac{1}{4}$ of the project, the French Quarter [I know, I know a really bad pun].)

C: The creation of anything is initially limited to whomever thinks of it, likewise the elimination of that same thing can be achieved by the people who provide thoughts, which are energy or fuel, as humans would say.

Q: Can you give an example?

C: A person imagines the building of a structure, then acts on the idea. If other humans become aware, this will expand the project, even if the other humans oppose. The support plus opposition will cause the matter to grow, even if this develops in ways neither the initiator or subsequent participants prefer.

Q: What about when awareness among humans stops right there, where the issue, matter or affair never grows?

C: If another human becomes aware, the matter has grown. To achieve a spread of awareness requires action, among humans.

Q: Even among telepathic humans?

C: That is an oxymoron; all humans are telepathic. Choosing participation in humanity requires setting aside or suspending telepathic communication with and between other humans.

Q: But most humans, like...a vast, vast majority, don't believe humans can communicate telepathically.

C: Most humans did not believe many things which humans now believe, and many things believed now will likewise be overturned if relevance of it remains after enough time elapses.

All humans transmit telepathically; all humans respire and circulate blood through the body. The only mystery is the ability to understand incoming telepathic information. It is latent in all humans and can be developed.

Q: How do mass movements begin, such as Das Dritte Reich ? (i.e. Nazis)

C: Where the life plans of many humans shall be affected, the many humans plan collectively. Thought energy given or subsequently removed, or in some cases withheld, will control the degree and extent to which the movement shall expand then contract.

Q: How then do we humans use our thought energy to get rid of that political tumor and stain on America's reputation, Donald Trump?

C: This is achieved by doing the opposite of what the question does. Such an example of opposing human emotion fuels Donald Trump; where detractors react and respond in such way, the target is enhanced, expanded and energized.

Q: Shouting "Let's Go Brandon" and other insults in the direction of Joe Biden does the same?

C: Yes.

Q: Can a mathematical formula be written to reflect the energetic input and result?

C: Of course; humans do this constantly, calling it thermodynamics is one of many good examples.

Q: Without taking precise measurements, can it be explained? The parts and pieces?

C: The sum effect examines the number of souls, the duration of energy and the intensity to reach total value, applied against the energetic mass of the target. The higher or lower the mass in comparison to the applied energy, plus awareness and resistance of both inputs and target, determine output.

Q: Does awareness of one's disgust for Trump or for Biden make a difference?

C: Yes, this reduces the effect. The highest transfer of energy to target occurs as or before the sender knows and understands the expanding effect created. Directing anger fuels the cause and source of it.

Q: How about attempting to understand the opposite position?

C: This expands the matter but activates a subpart of the process, which is to draw the opposite pole closer. This effort uncovers the common ground which already exists, which must be, for interest to develop between several points-of-view. S/he who hates also shares a common benefit with her/his target but differs as to method, technique or approach. Study of the wrong way reveals all approaches to right and wrong, which differ mainly in compass heading.

Q: How about a topic we believe we cannot control? For example, we run across an on-line forum discussing a topic we find abhorrent. We don't believe we can do much if anything about it, but react nonetheless. Example: the dog lover on one continent who discovers dog meat eaters on another continent torturing live animals as part of the slaughter.

C: You may individually control all things which enter your awareness, however the physical constraints of being human apply, making you believe you can do little or cannot afford the effort. We would suggest a person reaching awareness, might send what humans call a prayer or positivity to the torturers. Enough of this energy delivered will bring the practice to a halt.

Q: Does this expansionist or recessive effect apply everywhere on Earth?

C: Yes, because it is a law of metaphysics in Heaven, a place from which you never depart.

Q: Okay, let's put this into practice; if a person wants more money, can s/he invest emotion, mental energy or psychic fuel into the notion and eventual reality of having more money, and get it?

C: Yes. Anything humans create can be given by some to others, and more created or eliminated. Bear in mind, as more and more of you did this and received the money you desire, the expansion of money creation would attract more participants. One method of participating in the expansion is to attempt to increase revenue or collections, this means higher prices per unit. Humans are doing this now, calling it inflation. You dislike inflation personally if it presents higher prices proportional to the money you have or receive with regularity. Humans can easily create and distribute money with near perfect evenness but have & do not and also refuse. Doing so is deemed unfair; money represents products and services and serves simply as the spark, lubricant and measuring stick to the actions of creating and providing products and services.

Humans want thought energy to enable the arrival of money for me, but without a change in or of expectations, which come from thee.

Q: What about violence? I am thinking of violent theft, using threats of death or serious injury to force victims to hand things over; how do we eliminate it?

C: Everyone should resist, or everyone should comply. Either response will kill off the practice in extremely short order. These two reactions supply the lowest energy to the matter, thus reducing it to the point of extinguishment.

Q: If victims handed over anything demanded by a violent threat or face-to-face attacker, criminals would run wild; we'd all lose everything.

C: To the contrary, the opposite would occur. Think this through we ask, so that your energy works to your benefit.

Q: Thank you Esteemed Committee. I'd like to explore this subject more but more than three pages of it can become tedious. Better save leftovers for another day.

C: Do be well one and all we wish. Return again.
