

HOLLOW HEAVENS

01 December 2022

A reader asks:

1. Could you ask The Committee for their views on the “hollow heavens” or “false consensus realities” which seem to be in the astral and not where we are supposed to go when we die.
2. These are reportedly not the “true heaven” as it is usually created by religious groups, with their own agendas. Reportedly, they masquerade as the light which souls encounter when they die, but it is a false light, meant to keep souls from going to the higher realities. They espouse “merging with God” and forgoing any physical shape.
3. Is there any truth to this? Isn’t the purpose of existence to have multiple upon multiple experiences to enhance “the One” rather than to “merge with God” after one or a few lifetimes?

I am sure readers will be interested.

I will repeat each part of this 3-part question, then ask The Committee to reply, explain or comment.

1) Could you ask the Committee for their views on the “hollow heavens” or “false consensus realities” which seem to be in the astral, and not where we are supposed to go when we die.

C: This questioning explanation –or explaining question– belongs, if anywhere, in the human realm. Heaven as we have often explained, is one of many human names for your true home, which surrounds you. It is not a location different and distinct to which you travel by traversing a distance from the physical location of a human body when death takes place. Heaven surrounds you now; it is a dimensional shift which takes you there. Once you have re-entered Heaven after completion of an incarnated life, you move to a location by thought. No travel is included.

Heaven cannot be deemed hollow by the human meaning of this word of English. This would be as if one were to say water is dry or soiled is clean. What is stopped moves not. No such thing as a false reality can exist; if it is false, it is not reality, either by consensus, edict, order, command, decree or personal interpretation. Reality simply means existence. Who among humans can see, experience, create or escape an existence is variable, based on their life plan, but reality cannot be false.

2) These are reportedly not the “true heaven” as it is usually created by religious groups, with their own agendas. Reportedly, they masquerade as the light which souls encounter when they die, but it is a false light, meant to keep souls from going to the higher realities. They espouse “merging with God” and forgoing any physical shape.

C: Religion is a set of ideas and beliefs, or beliefs in ideas. Many are accurate, many others inaccurate but religion serves a great purpose and value when it grows in popularity and remains relevant to many adherents. There can be no such saying, term or phrase in human languages which refer to a true Heaven; this implies a false counterpart exists also. These groups are using the phrase and concept as means to teach then enforce behavior, rules and compliance as the way to enter Heaven.

The prevention of a soul from going to a higher reality, is false. Realities are not ranked, none are higher or lower. Reality simply means existence. What significance is interpreted by any one soul is unique, however no blockages, impediments, barriers or obstacles exist in Heaven beyond the individual’s voluntary desire not to go somewhere.

God is the collective of all souls, you are already merged with God, you always were and always shall be. No beginning and no end to this can exist.

3) Is there any truth to this? Isn’t the purpose of existence to have multiple upon multiple experiences to enhance “the One” rather than to “merge with God” after one or a few lifetimes?

C: We have addressed the truthfulness above. The purpose of existence is to exist; the decision to incarnate as one type or form an experience, is to grow. Many paths, ways, means & methods exist for the soul to grow; new techniques are invented constantly. These are meaningless for now, to your soul as an incarnated human. That you are reading these words as one means you have chosen where you are now, at this moment and you are doing wonderfully. Because of this wonderful progress you make, you have come here to these words.

You enhance yourself, all souls who know you already and all other you shall meet. You are not enhancing the one, you are enhancing everyone. You need not merge with the good, you already are the good. The collective goodness of all souls, which is Godness, Godlike and God as you.
