

Making The Change

07 September 2022

After asking The Committee to address predicting the past, the future and the present, I ask them to address our restrictions and limitations as humans, and what changes we can make.

Q: Esteemed Committee, what we read from y'all in the last three posts was from the place & position of our souls, in Heaven. What about here on Earth, in the flesh? We cannot change the past, only our future. What does it mean to us to know how the absence of time means there exist infinite courses through the past and through the future?

C: To understand that your past is the result of your choices and from the choices of other humans. You choose to have things happen to you, or to happen to many people where you attend and participate, and you choose to do things with others. These decisions and the events which occur because of them, form your past.

Q: What does it mean to say, everything is now?

C: This is an abbreviated, shortened form of summarizing what we have hoped to explain. To say this is a poor, deficient way to explain, however it is accurate. The future occurs right now, time can in human segments be divided and measured in such small pieces as to be well below human perception or meaning, yet still qualify as the future. Ten or twenty milliseconds is the future compared to this instant, but a thousand milliseconds passes with a slow blink of the eyes. So is the now ten milliseconds, one hundred, one thousand or twenty thousand? You can each and all decide.

Your every action and move are recorded. Because you live on Earth, your position is a part of the action. Position is time, which means movement. Even if you the human do not believe you are moving, of course you are because the angle of light is always changing, because of the movement you experience.

Now means the place between the past and the future. In ten seconds will come a new now. That does not mean what is now changes, it simply receives a new label in ten seconds. One with numbers if you would like. Time and date these are called.

Q: How do we make changes?

C: Look at destinations, not time.

Q: Define the goal? Set the objective?

C: Yes, imagine how it looks. In as much detail as you want or care to dream up. The challenge humans create, is such dream is nearly always compromised with existing surroundings, with expectations from habit and with established ideas and beliefs.

These things are factors but are variable also; they can be changed. For humans on Earth, the process seems to take time. This is accurate from the human perspective, but the amount of time often cannot be predicted or set.

Q: Y'all are referring to that example a few posts back, the racing car wheel being loosened. If it falls off during the race and on what lap are impossible to predict, and it probably doesn't matter much either.

C: Yes. Your Guardian Angel Guides are your servants, helpers, assistants and coworkers. They will arrange and re-arrange the parts and pieces of your Earth environment to bring about the existence of what you want.

Q: Do effects on other humans make a difference?

C: Always and for this reason, time seems to affect the process when it otherwise would not.

Q: Such as in Heaven?

C: Yes, because in Heaven creating anything can be done without affecting other souls, or affecting them to the extent they like and only. Such creations can also be as easily dissolved. Not on Earth; the involvement of other humans matters.

Q: So we humans can have nearly anything we like on Earth?

C: Not nearly; you may have anything you can imagine. If it exists in thought, it already exists. To create its physical existence is simply another view of it.

Q: Anything?

C: Anything; the only limit is your imagination. If you believe it can exist, it does and already.

Q: So why can't I create a beautiful new Jaguar in glossy British Racing Green? I imagine it.

C: It already exists, it does not require creation. The human method and means for getting it, already exist.

Q: But why can't I create an alternative method?

C: You can. How many humans will you affect to do this?

Q: Why can't I have it without affecting anybody?

C: Are you a hermit who can guarantee nobody will ever see the car parked where you live or visit? Do you expect no other human to see it as you drive? You hope others see it, so they will avoid collisions, the same way you avoid them also. The vehicle will require registration, then identifying tags or plates, these will be cross checked with the list of cars the manufacturer produces. So you might require a new factory, in addition to the one already making them.

Consider your ability to have anything; all other humans are like you, also. They can also create anything. Imagine if everybody could create anything, at any moment. This requires that disposal of the items created be considered after they deteriorate. You wish to create a house, but as a human this house will wear out and deteriorate as will any physical object.

If you could make then dissolve at will the house you know & like, so can all other humans. Wait...you have this already in Heaven. You come to Earth not to have it.

You chose to come to Earth, to live inside the restraints the conditions of Earth surface life require. One of these is the effect on Earth and upon other humans.

You can imagine then have anything but doing so must consider the effects on the environment and your fellow humans and animals.

This role we your Guardian Angels and Guides fulfill for you.

Q: Do human doubts affect the process?

C: We say yes and mostly prevent it. Because humans doubt they can have things means they do not. Belief is the essential ingredient, and humans resist new ones in truly amazing ways.

Q: I know people who desperately want certain things but never get them. Why?

C: They only look outwardly as if they desperately want it, yet their desire is as sincere as possible. Of this have no doubt when you observe or experience that. Each night they the desperate desirers sleep and confer with their guides. In these meetings, their life plan is consulted, checked; changes and effects are considered. The soul can often decide that the unfulfilled longing is better, and in many a life plan this feeling, emotion and reaction is written in for specific purpose and reasons. The memory of this meeting, and the recall of the life plan contract, are not remembered after waking up again.

The true goal, the lesson learned from the experience of wanting but not having, is reached.

Q: Thank you Esteemed Committee.

C: Our honor again and always. Do return, one and many.
