

Message To Mankind, 4 of 10

11 March 2022

(Today is an "11" day by the way: $1+1+3+2+2+2=11$)

Sayeth The Committee: We speak now of the fourth of ten topics. Speak this time we shall of your future, the existence of life believed to have not yet happened.

Look around today, the day of an eleven, a double one, twins, a pair, a couple, two halves of completion. What do you see?

Look at another day in your memory then consider this: can you look at another day in the future, just as you do in the past or present moment?

Yes, you can and looking will change what you see. The calendar cycle will reveal to you the change when the number comes due.

As you contemplate the future, one of two things happens: either you see a future already decided or you see a future that shall be brought to occur.

This happens both individually and collectively; you do it yourself for yourself or it happens to many people, for & by many people.

What you do for and by yourself rarely is; because you are not alone even if or when you think you are by yourself. We are here with you, and so are other humans.

Thus, four futures exist; the individual half and its two parts, the planned and the to-be-created then the collective part, also what has been planned and decided, then what shall also be brought to exist.

If the planned future already exists, because it has been decided, chosen, selected and designed, then it is not the future, is it? It is the present moment but not yet revealed.

Human existence and incarnation upon Earth provide the opportunity to separate these four parts:

- Individual – created already
- Individual – to be made
- Collective – exists already
- Collective – to be made

As you observe surrounding events, know that all are one of the four above. If you do not like what you see coming, stop and look at what has passed and what is now, at this moment. Why were the past and present created to be what you now see, have or do? Remember moment = momentum.

Once understood, then clearly you will see the future and know that what matters is your reaction, not what happens. This is the purpose of your life; this is the reason you came to be on Earth and to read these words today. Be well one and all and do return soon; so shall we.
