

Message to the HCPs

12 August 2021

We talk here about the HCPs (my nickname acronym, meaning Hidden Controlling Powers.) We never hear from them and never will.

To remind everyone who they are: a group of humans identified by several outside names such as Illuminati, New World Order, the Cabal and so forth. They have no name for themselves. One label observers might apply is as valid as another. I joined the mess by inventing my own moniker, because it sounds like and reminds me of the chemical phenylcyclohexyl piperidine (PCP), a mind altering drug also known as angel dust. The HCP Angels. ☹

The Committee now speaks about them, quoted from The Committee.

"This group invites its members; nobody can look them up or apply to join. No future member is considered as a candidate by way of an applicant's request. Once inducted, members are captive for life. Very often and in nearly every case, candidates are erased from their past through staged deaths, then inserted into key roles by way of a manufactured background, an invented history and a concocted curriculum vitae.

The HCPs employ thousands of subordinates, nearly all of them corporate and government officials at high level. This is not to suggest most corporate executives and government officials are subordinates, because a majority are not. The correct number of members and subordinates cannot be defined without knowing the knowledge criteria and parameters which apply to each level. It can be tens of thousands, if enough soldier subordinates are considered. Permanent member partners number in the dozens, less than one hundred. Key operators subordinate to the less than one hundred, number from three to six hundred dozen.

Only the top less-than-one hundred know the true size and scope.

The life members are knowledgeable about nearly all matters involving the HCPs, whereas the subordinates, who have broad authority and wield significant power themselves, have carefully compartmentalized information. They are typically unaware of other information, operations and schemes not involving them. Such subordinates are held in place by a check & balance system the parts & pieces of which they do not know exist. Thus rogue, harmful behavior, either intentionally aimed at damaging the HCPs or carried out unwittingly, can be curtailed and neutralized. The bad actor cannot know from where the countermeasures originate, thus has little to no ability to defend against them or prevent it.

Other subordinates in key places are well positioned to issue explanations, justification and reasoning behind the acts, which direct outside attention & observation far away from what is really the nature of the momentary beast.

The HCPs truly believe they do benevolent things. Their financial wealth is so far beyond comprehension of the average mortal billionaire, not to mention human being in general, that the pursuit of wealth has almost zero meaning for them. They seek power, control and domination; they have achieved it. They pursue its permanent expansion. Money to them is but a tool, method and technique.

Overall, they believe human societies would simply collapse without them, that a certain percentage of humanity is expendable because it cannot be redeemed. They are the ultimate manifestation of corrupting power and its absolutes. They reject the idea of personal freedom and self-determination because they believe mankind, if left to your own devices, will self-destruct. They are a textbook example of psychological projection, putting onto other people they observe and attempt to control, the qualities they themselves possess.

They are not omnipotent, but feel this way within areas they choose to exploit. They know that if they chose to control most things, their operation would implode. Rather, their strategy is to teach compliance to the masses, instructing them to obey, such followers under the illusion that what they think, believe and do is truly noble. Beneficial sounding ideas are used to mix truth with oppression, appealing to emotion, inexperience and naïveté.

The lure of possessions, trinkets, fancy objects, luxuries and wealth is used to rope in the targeted official. She who resists or rejects the good life, is identified long before becoming a beneficiary of the money, and is cast aside. The vulnerable are recruited, then fortified with the power of money many surrounding people are willing to give to nearly any wealthy or even perceived wealthy person.

The top people in the organization have learned to employ the power of the mind to physically create objects and materials on a faster basis than the usual human manifests things through the power of thought. For example, cash money can be materialized from thin air, then used to convince other people to deliver nearly any physical thing or service humans sell.

All aspects of mankind are monitored through the subordinate system; controller managers are used to identify opportunities and threats. The words you read now will be scanned, then identified as worthy of time given to read them, by a human employed for detecting potential problems or chances for gain.

The permanent members are trained to be telepathic, psychic and intuitive because all humans have the ability, thus capability to enhance or improve it. During this process, the HCPs learned that psychic ability does not convey power to become a mind reader of other people, without the consent and approval of the human & soul they might wish to scan. Any display of anger or frustration at inability to enter another mind's thinking, thickens and raises the walls and strengthens the barriers against intrusion. Think of physical intimacy; desire to have it but forcing oneself upon the object or target, shuts the process down. Unlike the physical body which can be controlled with physical force, the mind is far more powerful, in fact omnipotent in this aspect. No mind can be cracked open against its will."

Now The Committee switches horses to speak to the HCPs and their subordinates. We who were the target audience for the previous part of this session, are no longer. We're the observers looking into through the temple's windows, listening to the message.

"Our greetings and salutations to you whom these words touch, much thanks we have for your role and place in human societies. So interesting and given to growth is mankind because of groups like you.

Your dominance over Earth and mankind is an illusion in which you believe more strongly than even the people of the planet you would hope to control completely, were it possible.

You see, the very desire for control and dominance which motivates you, is not exclusive. Many humans have this desire also, so the frustration you sometimes feel when plans unfold differently from what you prefer, is precisely the same as what happens to the insubordinate and non-compliant.

Of course you know this, yet skillfully and expertly have you identified the human traits which categorise the residents of Earth, then you have exploited them in a way the resistance becomes nearly always a minority unable to change course or track.

We know your feelings when the population of the large North American nation chose your most distasteful candidate for leader, and we observed keenly the efforts carried out to remove him. In this we say, you fell prey to the emotionality of which you nearly always take advantage. You jumped the gun and cost yourselves an opportunity you did not realise you had. Patience and the long-term view, as were used to place the forty fourth president in office and under your wings and thumb, were better to your purposes. The illusion that the distasteful and unpleasant thing must be put aside, and that you shall if you can do it, is not something you might or should follow yet also continue to use effectively to reach your ends.

Your reign's closing draws closer. It will come abruptly; derive the best lessons from the time which remains, for the growth of your souls and the best growth of all others with whom you associate, both knowingly and the many more not known. The little people your subordinates push and prod to enact your bidding, you will discover are not little at all. You are.

| Our love and faith to you, be well HCPs the one and many of you all."
